Drips from the President's Dynaflows...

HELLO ALL !!

The 'President's Picnic' has now come and gone. From what Rebecca and I have heard, everyone had a great time and the food was excellent; in many cases quite 'picniky', like the beans and franks, which I especially enjoyed. I am sorry if you missed the picnic, as we missed YOU!

I announced at the 'picnic' that I was going to abide by the term limits that the last three or four presidents have adhered to – that is two years. I have served two years as of this December. I initially intended to serve for several years but I have received unexpected 'push-back' from some of our membership. I never expected that we would all always be on the same page – but 'push-back' is different and unpleasant.

Our next meeting will be October 7th at 7 pm at Bewley's car museum. We will meet to eat at 5:30 at Monterrey Mexican Restaurant in Town Square.

See you then....

My Life With Cars

by Dave Selmeski

Part 4 - As that Summer Progressed

As that summer progressed there were more group parties, beer began to play more of a part as we were all preparing to go off to college in another month. One night we decided to have a beer party on a dead end road that led near the 17th hole of the Whippoorwill Golf Course in Armenia NY. There was a large turn around area with lots of parking space and we didn't think there were any houses nearby to hear us as we partied. I seem to recall there were at least 10 cars pulled up like a circle of pioneer wagons except that we faced all the cars inward with their lights on and turned everybody's radios to the same rock & roll station. We had a dance party-what a blast. Lots of beer & laughter & innocent fun. Until — in the midst of our partying we saw lights in the woods & on the road behind us and police saying "stay where you are and don't move". A large group of officers - I seem to remember at least 8, maybe a dozen - had surrounded us. Most of us were already in the circle of headlights. Perhaps 2 or 3 couples were making out on the golf course - they were the lucky ones who were able to escape, but had to call home for rides. The police (from 2 different towns - that's how they were able to get so many at one time - about 10:30 at night). They made us pick up all of the beer cans littering the ground and there were a lot. Bob's dad had bought him a brand new white Corvair convertible for his college car. The cops had us put all the cans in the front compartment (trunk) of his rear engine car. I wonder if he was ever able to get the smell out. What do you do with us? There must have been about 30 kids there and close to a dozen cars. As the police were deciding how to handle this, one of the guys (who had made a beer run for another 2 or 3 cases of beer) came down the hill to the party area in his 56 Mercury with his lake pipes open & rapping & spitting out flames. Exiting his car he yelled "I got three more cases of beer" before realizing all the police were there. The officers wrote down our names, car and plate numbers and told us we were to follow them in a caravan formation to the local police station. As we all lined up behind a police cruiser, our beer run buddy roared up the road, pipes roaring, past the lead police car and raced to the station. The rest of us followed docilely, parked and went inside. The chief put us all into a gym, on bleachers, and made us wait for the Justice of the Peace, who they called & woke up about 11:30 that night. Needless to say, he was not a happy man. After a long lecture we were allowed to depart, (they had everyone's name and address). A few days later in the mail came a letter from the judge advising our parents of the events of that night, with a few exaggerations such as "numerous condoms found at the scene, your daughters hanging out with older men (the guy who bought the beer was 21) implying lot worse happenings that what really was going on. Most of us were grounded for a week or two after that.

The last few days of the summer were coming to an end. There was a final going away party that night. Several of my friends & I spent the afternoon driving around in my 35 Buick (with a rebuilt engine) to say goodbye to old friends. The engine began knocking in the lower end. I checked the oil, it was OK. Water OK also. I decided to drive it to the party that night, only about 8 miles away. Got to the party with a friend in the car, engine got noisier. I hoped we'd get home OK, deciding it should make it. On the first of several long hills, the knocking got louder & louder, then bam - a rod came thru the side of the engine block. No saving it now - just hope I'll make it home. Next hill and bam - another rod - this one red hot & glowing-also thru the side of the engine. Down to 6 cylinders, steam everywhere one more hill to go. Last hill, threw 2 more rods, no water left, came home running on 4 cylinders, red hot, in a cloud of steam. A week later, after I left for college, my dad scrapped it. I still have the worst bent rod for a paper weight, all these years later.
